Monday had dawned. There was to be no trading that day, at least not till this great service had been held. The speaker said: "We had not attended church the day before as Dr. Mathews was ill and had sent me for the occtor. It was Dr. McKinnon at the nead of the Seateh beautiful them." To share the Scotch hospital there. To show him proper respect I chartered a carriage and called at his door, suppos-ing, of course, he would return with me. Evidently, however, the doctor was not of the same mind and polite-ly told me he would come by his own conveyance which he did after some little time in waiting. When he arrived he so reminded Dr. Mathews of his own father, who was also a physician, that he was readily forgiven and leaving a little medicine for which there was no charge he quietly took his leave. The doctor recovered in due time. So rapid was this recovery that he patient was able to be about Monay, and attend the Easter Monday ervice. It was our Greek morehant who had invited us, otherwise we might not have heard of this unique occasion. Every Greek store, and, for ught I know, every other store owned aught I know, every other store owned and operated by Christians is closed that day and the churches are filled with earnest and devout worshippers. Men, women and children are in attendance, the men crowded upon the floors in every nook and corner to-gether with their children, but the wo-men, according to the custom of the Mohammedans who ruled the land and

Some people are always lucky. Here is Danielson, woefully short of ice, and into town comes an Uncle Tom's Cabin company Friday. Was that company short of ice? It was not, Eliza's escape was staged with the same lavishness as though lee were a commodity to be had in plenty, and the scene made the householder green.

Was interesting from beginning to and it its close, the Patriarca taking the lead formed a procession in the main aisle, followed by the priests and the altar boys. In the line was the French consul clad in the uniform of his high coffice, accompanied by his body guard which the Turkish government always made it obligatory upon him and all other foreign officers to employ.
